Editorial Brief

This journal is aimed at fostering and extending professional growth and development of guidance counsellors at every level. It publishes researched, reviews, theoretical and empirical studies in all spheres of counselling. The essence is to facilitate the sharing of ideas, information and research findings and reports that will ensure the professional development of budding and seasoned counsellors alike.

The editorial board appreciates and acknowledges the encouragement and support of all in this regard. It is indeed our collective resolve and commitment to continual growth. Be assured that every edition will continue to make better, and higher quality ready to meet every expectation.
